Enrollment Reaches 777

H. O. Russell Extends Welcome To Students and Instructors

Santa Ana junior college was founded in 1915. It has taken 32 years for "Junior" to mature. He has grown up. He has become Santa Ana college. No longer does he have to use cast-off buildings and facilities. He has quarters especially converted for his use. They are better than any he has ever had before.

He has a library of which all can be proud and laboratories are greatly improved. He has his own shops and expansion of these is already being planned. The Student Union is no longer two benches and a table out in the rain. Now there is a comfortable building as a nucleus of a Student Center. The Associated Students executive council is planning the expenditure of several thousand dollars on the development of the Center to make it a real Student Union.

Within a few months the completion of permanent buildings will be accomplished. These will provide many fine classrooms and faculty offices, an administration building, a cafeteria, a little theatre and ample physical education facilities. The new campus is large, and when landscaping is completed it will compare favorably with any.

The process of growing up brings new responsibilities to all. The students must assume the character and maintain the dignity of a group-up college. The faculty must understand that we are no longer "Junior" to some other institution and thus must take over the educational leadership of the community.

Again let me say that "Junior" has grown up. He has left many fine traditions and outstanding accomplishments. I hope that his future will be built on these.—Director H. O. Russell

Prexy Rogers Greet Incoming Students

It is with great pleasure that I extend this greeting to you, the students entering Santa Ana college. We realize the facilities on our new campus are limited and insufficient. However, they are better than anything we have ever had.

In a few months great changes will be seen and a wonderful campus will be completed, so with a little willing effort and patience these hardships may be overcome. Things may seem terribly gloomy at times; however, we will endeavor to maintain the friendly atmosphere that has prevailed at Santa Ana college in the past.

I extend this invitation to you freshmen to join the sophomores in making this year a most successful one. So with your cooperation I assure you that every member on the Executive Board will reciprocate. So long for now. I'll be seeing you on the campus.—Bill Rogers.

DANCE TONIGHT

Don't forget the dance tonight after the game. It's a record session at the YWCA, Fifth and Main streets.

Pat Klamt, social commissioner in charge of the dance, says it will last till midnight and to wear sport clothes.

Remember, it's a dance at the YWCA tonight after the game till midnight. Everyone come and get the social ball rolling full speed ahead.

Don of the Week Voting to Follow Oceanside Contest

Voting for the "Don of the Week," sponsored by Vander-mast's clothing store at Fourth and Sycamore streets, will begin following the Dons' grid opener against Oceanside jaycee tonight, Carl Stein, manager, stated this week.

Football fans may write, on the program or any slip of paper, the name of the player who, in their opinion, turned in the best performance of the evening. The name should then be deposited in the ballot box at Vander-mast's before Tuesday evening, when votes will be tallied.

"Don" to be Given Key
An enlarged photograph of the winning player will then be placed in Vander-mast's window where it will remain until the next contest. In addition to the picture, a bronze key will be presented to each Don of the Week.

At the conclusion of the season a Don of the Year is selected by the team and presented a special award by the clothing firm.

Staged to Promote Team Work
The contest, now a tradition at Santa Ana, is staged to promote good will and teamwork among the players, as well as to publicize the college.

Associated Women Hold Annual Freshman Tea

With an attendance of 150 Freshman women and faculty members, the 1947 college social season opened Wednesday afternoon with the annual Freshman Women's Tea.

Get-Acquainted Program
Highlighting the afternoon's program was a get-acquainted game originated especially for the occasion. Each woman received a pack of 20 small cards on which they were instructed to get the names of women from Orange county, California cities outside the county, and women from other states. There were many in attendance from neighboring cities with the exception of Newport Beach, which was represented by one. Two "Don" pennants were given as prizes for the first two to complete their cards. At the end of the second hour a "Santa Ana College" felt seal was given to the winner for that hour.

As a climax to the event the Freshmen were introduced to the faculty members, after which cookies and punch were served.

In Charge of Tea
On the committee were Betty McConnell, president of AWS, Connie Murane, social chairman in charge of tea, Anne Russell, vice-president of AWS in charge of entertainment, Mary Jane Delaney, secretary-treasurer in charge of refreshments.

Acting as hostesses were Betty McConnell, Lucille Innerst, YWCA president; Winifred Meredith, WAA president; Mrs. H. O. Russell, wife of the Director; Miss Marie Pound, college nurse, and Miss Agness Todd Miller, Dean of Women.

Total of 1500 Expected With Finish of Night School Registration

Latest figure reached in registration at Santa Ana college is 777. This is slightly under last year's September registration figure which was over 800. Registration was simplified this year, and students were enrolled in two and one half days. Last year it took four days to register less students. Sophomores were registered on Wednesday of last week with freshmen and special students following on Thursday and Friday.

Eight Courses Added to College Curriculum

With the opening of the current semester at Santa Ana college, eight new courses have been included in the school curriculum, Miss Genevieve Humiston, registrar, said today. Courses have been added to the English, physical education, and engineering departments.

New PE Courses Offered
Courses in recreational leadership have been added to the physical education department, under the supervision of Coach Bill Cook, Miss Isabelle Rellstab, and John Ward. This course, which is being offered for the first time at Santa Ana college, consists of lectures dealing with small group work, public recreation programs, and will work in conjunction with community officials. The course is designed to highlight this year's very unique physical education program, which includes the instructing of the fundamentals of golf, tennis, bowling, dancing, and archery.

Course in Study Techniques
Mr. Ernest Crain is teaching a course in study techniques; designed to develop more effective study methods and reading skills. The English department feels that this course, with emphasis on outlining, will be of great aid to the student who aspires to attend a four-year university.

Four new courses have been added to the engineering department, which are being taught by Mr. Royce, W. D. Cornett, and Mr. Harry E. des Granges. Materials of construction, which is required of all engineering majors, is the study of the sources, properties, and production of common engineering materials. Machine shop is now being offered, for the first time in some years, as a college transfer course. Welding and metal fabrication have been designed for aviation mechanics; while gasoline engines and diesel engines will also be studied this year.

Books Bought, Sold In Student Union Store

Students who are in need of text books should check with the used bookstore in the Student Union building. This store is operated as a service to the students who wish to sell their used books as well as to those who need texts.

Men Outnumber Women

Again this year the men on the campus outnumber the women two to one. There are 456 men students and 231 women. The freshman class outnumbers the sophomore class about one and one-half to one, the enrollment figures being 438 and 296 respectively. Also registered were 43 special students who are taking under 12 units of work.

The fact that Santa Ana college remains one of the smaller schools in its class is attributed to the fact that the new permanent buildings are yet to be completed.

Night School Starts Monday
When night school registration is finished next week, total enrollment should reach 1500. Registration for night school begins Monday, September 22 at 6:30 p. m. Students desiring to register for night school courses should attend those classes they intend to take. Night school schedules may be obtained in K15.

Eight Instructors Join College Faculty

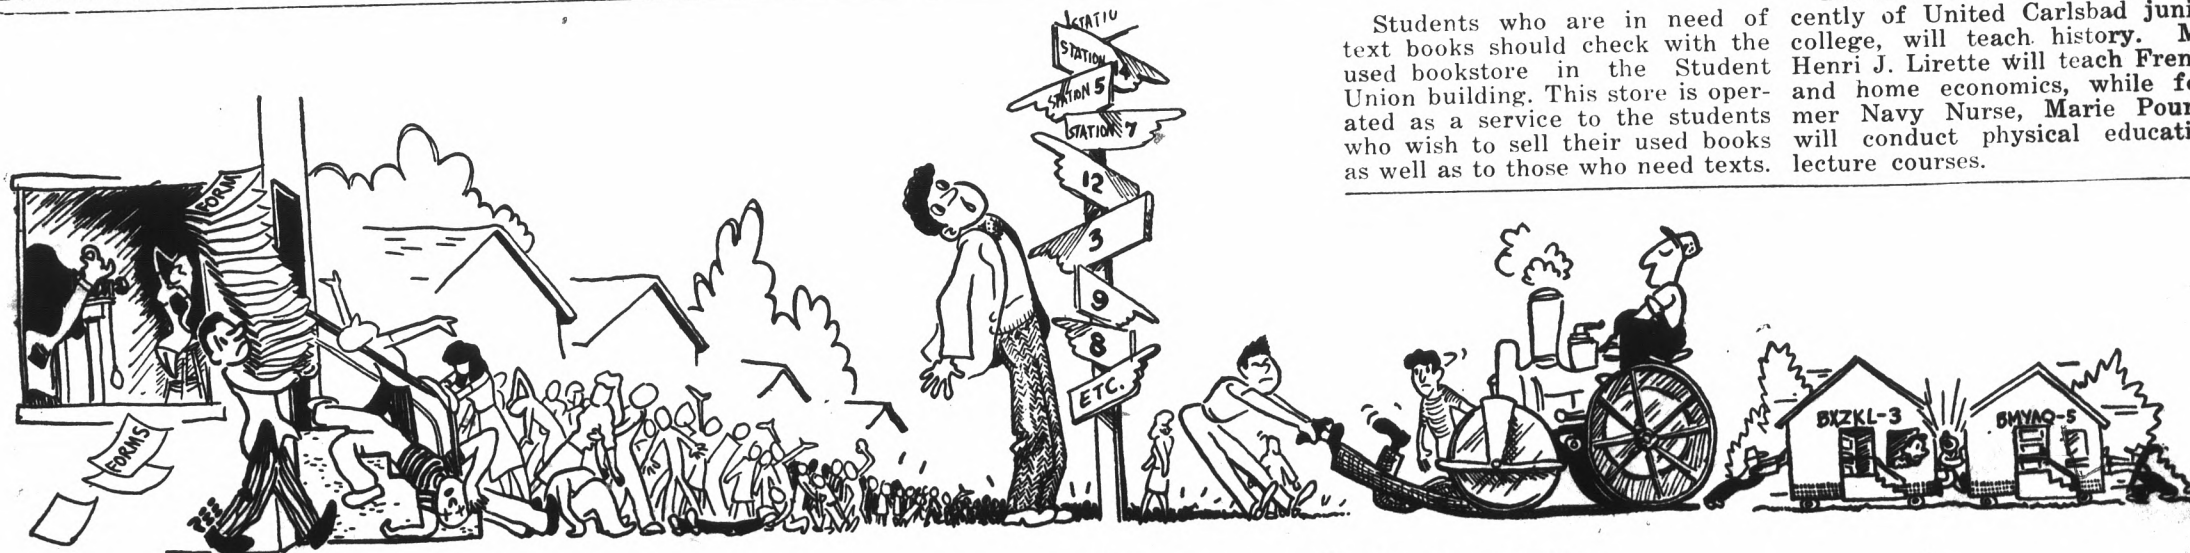

Eight new instructors, including a Dean of Men, have been added to the faculty of Santa Ana college for the 1947-48 college term. A ninth member, Thomas Glenn, returns to the English department after five years of military service. He will head the English department.

Gerard New Dean of Men
Mr. Maurice H. Gerard formerly of Fresno State college, is the new Dean of Men. His duties include the advising of the Executive Council and supervising of men students' affairs.

Other new instructors include Mr. Royce W. D. Cornett, mechanics instructor, and Mr. Miles W. Eaton, who will teach economics and political science. Mr. Eaton was with the University of Kansas City this summer and with the faculty of Kansas City junior college prior to that.

Venstrom Heads Journalism Department
Heading the journalism department is Carl E. Venstrom, teacher of English at U. S. C. the past two years. He will also teach English 1A. Mr. Crain, Veterans & Placement Counselor, will likewise teach English.

Dr. Edwin T. Forre, most recently of United Carlsbad junior college, will teach history. Mr. Henri J. Lirette will teach French and home economics, while former Navy Nurse, Marie Pound, will conduct physical education lecture courses.

So You Chose Santa Ana!

TO MR. RUSSELL . . .

You are the first to be director of our school since it grew up." Now that we have grown up, we have the task of attaining maturity. There is much to be done. You have been chosen to do this task. You have demonstrated your ability as an instructor and counselor, and we know that you will use these abilities to the best advantage for the college in your new capacity as director. We wish you the best of luck and success in your new field.

TO THE SOPHOMORES . . .

You remember the "Battle of the Bungalows" last year. With all its inconveniences, this new temporary campus is still a great improvement. When the dust settles and the mud dries and we get established in our new home, things will return to normal and we'll be able to enjoy all activities such as assemblies and maybe sneak in a game of pinocle now and then. Remember how school spirit rose last year? Let's keep it there and raise it still higher. It's up to you—you know how.

TO THE FRESHMEN . . .

Now that the job of registering is over and you're getting settled in your classes, you can look forward to a year of fun as well as work. There are the service clubs to join, scholastic honor societies to strive for, football games, and assemblies. There will be parties and dances and many other social functions. You will be busy. We bid you welcome and wish you ugood luck.

Here's to Santa Ana college! Let's work to keep it the school it really is.—SES

Reveal History

Beanies Start Life Anew

One time sign of the Freshman class, the lowly jaysee beanie has at last come into its own as a symbol of spirit on the campus after a 20-year struggle during which time it has changed colors three times and been discarded altogether.

Beanies made their debut into Santa Ana traditions when, colored green, they were first imposed on the Frosh by upper classmen. These beanies marked lower class subordination for one year until hue was changed to the college colors of purple and white.

In keeping with the changing styles, the campus colors and rookie sombrero were changed to scarlet and black in 1928.

But in 1931 and 1932, the beanies were pigeon-holed in favor of large green buttons. The following year, the red and black skull-caps returned and enjoyed a long and healthy reign over the Frosh until this year.

Now they are back in a new role after having been decreed a necessity for entering the college rooting section. The beanie is truly now one of the large contributors to Santa Ana spirit.

Reporter Prepares Scenic Guide Of Future Campus Construction

How many of Santa Ana's 800 students have taken time out from the excitement of returning to school to tour the permanent campus across the way? El Don has prepared a few facts on

The official publication of the Associated Students of Santa Ana, California. Published bi-weekly during the college year while jaysee is in session, except the weeks of quarterly and semester examinations, and issued on the junior college consolidation ticket, the price of which includes $.50 for subscription to the paper.

Entered as second class matter November 9, 1927, at the post office at Santa Ana, California, under the act of March 3, 1879.

same. Most accessible entrance to the future home of Don-dom is guarded by a large Allison Honer sign reading, "No trespassing." Pay no heed to this, though, for the students are entitled to a glance at their long-overdue campus.

First building to come into view on the east end of the new plant is a 20-room classroom unit. That may not sound like so many rooms, but each one looks as if it could swallow one of the old bungalows. Huge windows, high ceilings, air vents, and many other details can be observed while strolling around the borders of the unit's inner courtyard.

Attention is next drawn to the spacious parking lots on either side of the classroom unit. These sections are already marked by high curbs, making it easy for students to see their extent and utility.

Situated directly in front of one of these parking lots is the future hangout of the administration and faculty, the Administration building, which is slated for completion before the second semester gets under way.

At the far end of the campus, one can see the locker rooms going up, while away in the distance the first completed portion of the new college, the tennis courts, stand out.

Happy, Carefree College Students Return To Campus Life With Bruises, Aches

FRAN HILL Amid an atmosphere choked with dust, 2000 nervy students commenced registration at Santa Ana college last week. Only 800 survived the ordeal!

Seven Service Clubs Pictured For Fresh

Meetings will be Monday evening by Santa Ana's seven service clubs to get plans under way for the annual Rush. In a few weeks, when new students will be initiated into the groups.

El Don will here attempt to give a short synopsis of each service club, its aims, and its activities, for the benefit of students who are interested in joining one of the organizations.

There are four women's service clubs, the Piloteers, the Spinsters, Las Gitanas, and Las Meninas, while the other three, Los Gauchos the Bachelors, and the Buccaneers, are masculine.

MENINAS

Organized to promote friendship among women students, Las Meninas annually take charge of the Women's May Morning Breakfast. "Ladies in Waiting to the Queen" is the English translation of the title.

GAUCHOS

La Compania de Los Gauchos is a men's service club embodying the principles of fellowship, social activities, an dservice to the college. Big event of last year for the Gauchos was sponsoring the Hard Times Dance at Huntington Beach.

SPINSTERS

Founded in 1930, the Sisterhood of Spinsters proposes to render service and promote friendship among the students. Each spring the Spinsters hold a Rummage Sale to keep the social wheel turning.

BUCCANEERS

The purpose of the Buccaneers is to promote all-school activities and to afford members an opportunity for social contacts. This nautical group got things going last fall with "Get Acquainted Day."

GITANAS

Las Gitanas, the Gypsies, is the third women's service club, seeking to secure good will among women students. The Gitanas annually stage their @ypsy Doodle, one of the year's big social gatherings.

BACHELORS

The Brotherhood of Bachelors, first service club on the campus, was organized in 1928 to promote school activities. Today they are still looking forward to the first postwar Bachelor Ball, after putting on the Christmas dance last winter.

PILOTEERS

Last, but not least, is the youngest of all the service clubs, the Piloteers. Founded in 1935, the Piloteers have slowly come to the front in social planning, and are again hoping to sponsor a dance this year.

Long Skirts Okayed By Dons, Donas

After a recent survey of the Dons and Donas on campus, we find that long skirts are preferred. (It's a good thing, since most of the gals spent their summer wages purchasing them, so they would be in style.) Anyway, this is the way it goes:

Bonnie Smith likes them, but thinks they make short girls look sawed-off.

Eddie Brown just thinks that they are 'O. K.'

Betty Lomax replied, "Well, if a girl has bowed legs she looks better in them, I guess."

Corrine Perry says they are swell. Earl Rowland just laughed, and some of the boys, when seeing a girl walk by with a long skirt on, yelled, "Grandma, what long skirts you wear!"

Shirlee Christensen advocates longer skirts, but states they make tall girls look too lanky. . . which brings to mind a small joke:

Long skirts make girls look taller, but they don't make boys look younger. . . Well, I'm through. (Don't repeat, fella, I can take a hint.)

It all began in front of K, which turned out to be the administration building. One long line stretching around corners had gathered to await the ceremonies, when suddenly orders came from higher sources to form three lines. Crash . . . zip . . . crunch . . . o-o-o-, but three lines were formed anyway.

Naturally, some expectant Dons had no permits to register. Naturally. Then some were broke, couldn't purchase student tickets, while others collapsed upon opening their grade envelopes.

The tide marched on, pinning counselors to the walls. Recovering from this inconvenience, however, the faculty quickly took revenge by tearing apart innocent programs, and placing the students in difficult courses.

Having overcome this setback, the advanced guard galloped wildly for the library building, while less oriented individuals merely wandered in and out of ditches and roadbeds in pursuit of the next station.

The thermometers showed 100 degrees as the lengthy pencil-pushing began. Clas cards, attendance cards, cards for the counselor, for the dean, blue cards, white cards, pink ones, yellow ones.

Then at last the final station, followed by a drinking fountain, and hence home to sleep it off.

But our troubles have been well rewarded—by dust, and heat, and more dust. Then came the rains, and mud.

INTRODUCING

Prexy Bill Rogers

Taking his place at the head of the Associated Students this fall is blond, modest Bill Rogers.

Bill is in his last lap of studies at Santa Ana, where he is enrolled as a business education major. He reports that his most interesting and practical course has been investments.

A graduate of Santa Ana high school, the new "Big Wheel" first set foot on the college campus way back in '42, but the war soon interrupted his education.

Under a new label, William Rogers, AOM 1/c, Bill served in the Naval Air Corps, and was attached to the Atlantic Fleet in Florida.

Back for another crack at the textbooks, in '46, he became a member of Los Gauchos, service club, which spring-boarded him to the student prexyship at the close of school last fall.

The blond chief made use of his summer vacation via a 10,000 mile automobile trip that took him through most of the West and Midwest.

Although still weary from the long excursion, Bill is occupying all his spare time, and often much study time, promoting more and better organized social activities for the college's 800 students. He feels that his biggest problem at the moment is developing the student union into a well-furnished hub of student activities.

When not working for either the betterment of the school or Bill Rogers, he enjoys travel and dancing, but states, with a wild look in his eye, that his biggest moment was his discharge from the Navy.

Union Fixtures

So it's back to school we are! It may be a mite dusty at present but we have the prospect of the new Student Union to look forward to. According to Vance McCarty, Student Body treasurer, the Union will reach completion in the not-too-distant future. Many, many dollars are to be spent in equipping this haven with fixtures, furniture, and an outdoor patio.

Dons, Donas Wed

The summer took its toll of many Dons and Donas when they fell heir to the rank of married people. Among those who tied the knot were Joe Cullen and Ruth Lewis, Frank Willsey and Adele Patterson, Barbara Welch and Bill Mason, Bea Duncan and Ralph Clayton and Jim Newlin and Helen Holl.

And there were others including Sam West and Evelyn McQuillin and Gloria Henning and John Trekel who journeyed to distant places to begin their married life. Rushes Ahead

Men and women's service clubs are already discussing plans for Rush week, so if you see people peering at you from behind buildings and around corners don't be alarmed.

Mr. Glenn, who used to direct the English Department, is back in the same post after a number of years' teaching in France. Welcome back, Mr. Glenn.

Little Helpers

During registration, numbers of students were seen assisting the faculty. A few of these were Anne Courtney, Pat Klamt, Chuck Martini, Ellie Skaggs, Bill Rogers and Joyce Sonneland.

An assembly for the purpose of choosing yell leaders this year will be held today and afterwards there will be a pep rally for tonight's game with Oceanside. Reports indicate that we have a great team this year so let's get out and give it some support.

Harold Miller and Mr. Gerard, new dean of men, will formally open the new tennis courts just as soon as weather permits, if they have to put up the nets themselves.

The college finally caught up with El Don. Take a squint at the seal between the El and Don across the top of page one. Yes, El Don has been formally calling this place "Santa Ana college" for a long time.

It looks like Santa Ana might again have a radio program on KVOE. It will be handled by Mrs. Reed's radio class, after being pioneered last year by Jack Pickering.

Hats off to Betty Lomax on winning the recent bathing beauty contest during the Orange Harvest Festival.

Adieu

We'll leave with a parting remark. The traditional red caps are now called rooters caps instead of Freshman beanies. And don't forget the after-game dance at the Y.W.C.A. tonight after the game.

Student Union First In Santa Ana's History

For the first time in Santa Ana college history, the Dons and Donas will have a place on the campus to turn to in their leisure hours in the student union.

Sitting aside from the "row," the union, reconverted from the infamous Bungalow "L", will house a snack bar and lounges. Fountain service will include coffee, milk, soft drinks, ice cream, sandwiches, and related items, all offered to the student body at low costs.

The lounges will afford room for relaxing, just loafing, dancing, pinocle and will also be open for club meetings and other special campus gatherings. Among its equipment is the furniture from the former women's lounge.

It will soon be equipped with tables, chairs, sofas, juke box, and other conveniences for the students.

Beanies Slated For Rooters

Inaugurating a new system for the college rooting section, the executive council announced this week the details for admission to the reserved student seats.

Before registration 650 seats were set aside by the executive board for a unified rooting section. The purpose of the rooting caps is to differentiate rooters from spectators and aid in making the section uniform and colorful.

To follow this theme wholeheartedly, it will be compulsory for everyone who wishes to sit in the rooting section to wear a cap. In the past the rooting sections have tended to be disorganized and the yells sporadic. The plan was adopted to overcome this weakness and facilitate cheer leaders in leading organized backing for the team.

Decals Given Free
Caps will be sold to Associated Student Body ticket holders and their guests at the price of one dollar each, this being the price paid for the caps by the school. Decals will be given free with each cap purchased until the supply is gone. The caps will be on sale at the game and at specified times thereafter.

Each student's cooperation is requested to enable Santa Ana to have a rooting section that the team can be proud of.

El Diario Appears

Supplementing El Don or vice versa is the daily bulletin known to one as El Diario. It is published daily by the office to keep faculty and students up on the current happenings around the campus.

El Diario is available in the administration building, the library, and the student union. Notices must be signed and deposited in a box in K17 not later than 10:30 a. m. of the day prior to publication. Indicate on the notice the number of days that the notice is to run.

Night School Fall Term To Begin On New Campus Mon.

Night school classes for Santa Ana college's fall term, begin Monday evening, September 22. College, high school night school, and Apprenticeship courses are offered during the fall term.

All college courses will take place on the new college campus, as well as most of the high school courses. Artcraft, sewing and woodshop classes will meet at Lathrop Junior high school on South Main street. A radio class will be held at Santa Ana Senior high school, as well as many of the Apprenticeship courses.

Anticipate Record Enrollment
A record enrollment is anticipated for the fall term, which will end December 11. Any adult is eligible to enroll in evening classes, but students who are attending other schools' concurrently, must get special permission to attend evening classes.

MISSING
One student whose name we have not been able to ascertain has been reported missing. His class was changed on him and he spent the full hour running around trying to find it. When last seen he was picking oranges across from the El Don office.

Orange Grove Makes Setting For New Temporary Campus

Amidst orange trees, dust, wet cement, and mud, Santa Ana college has made its start on the new campus site. Present conditions are not exactly favorable for a college atmosphere but within a short time a normal routine will set in.

New Road
A macadam road is to be laid for the main thoroughfare and a pavement will be put down around the back of the buildings. Shrubbery will be added to help beautify the temporary campus.

All of the present buildings are from the Santa Ana army air base with the exception of building L which was bungalow M on the old campus. Building K, which at present houses the administration, was a hospital unit at the air base and F, which contains the library, was a section of a mess hall.

Barracks Converted
A former office building, H is now used for the machine shop which replaces the old shop at the high school. The rest of the buildings are former barracks but have been changed to meet the requirements of classrooms.

Some of the present buildings are expected to be incorporated as part of the permanent site but all will be used for the night school when the college moves into the new buildings.

New Handbook To Be Out Next Week

"Specific assistance for a specific year," is the theme of this year's revised student handbook. Differing from former publications, the handbook, which will be distributed sometime next week, will be published in sections.

Sections Added Later
Sections will be published when the need warrants it. In the course of the school year, during which approximately three sections will be published.

Searchlight Points Way For the Game

If you see a beam of light shining over Santa Ana Friday evening around eight, just follow it. That will be the new college searchlight heralding the opening football game at the bowl.

Recently procured from the Federal Works Agency at Camp Haan the searchlight is to be used for football games, rallies, and all college publicity purposes. Manning the light will be Don Wilson and John Larrison of Harry des Granges' diesel engine shop.

When desGranges visited Camp Haan to get the light, he inquired about the distance that it would shine. Camp authorities stated that the 180 million candle-power searchlight was turned towards Pasadena, 45 miles away, a man there could read a newspaper by its light.

Included in the equipment is a portable power unit which supplies the current for the light. Various members of the mechanics class will take turns operating the light.

Dons, Oceanside in Clash Tonite

IN THE HUDDLE

By JEANNE WELTY
Sports Editor

Actual strength of the Oceanside gridders, who mix with the Dons tonight at the Bowl is pretty much a mystery. Like the Dons, tonight is their season opener, and it also marks the first time the two teams have met since 1940.

Oceanside Strength

Last year the Oceanside squad free-lanced, winning eleven and dropping one game to Idaho Southern by one point. Included in their conquests were Citrus, East Los Angeles, San Diego State jayvees, Whittier jayvees, El Centro, Reedly junior college, Pasadena jayvees, Navy Subtenders, and Riverside, which beat the local eleven 26 to 25 in a postponed fray last season. Coach Elmer Harriat's roster only numbers 35, and just five of them are lettermen: Waibel, quarterback; Carr, fullback; C. Annable and Feldt, and Janetski, guards.

Dons Ninth

Sam Hayes Touchdown Tips ranks the Dons ninth nationally among junior colleges, highest in the Eastern conference, with Chaffey placing twelfth. Compton college tops the list, Long Beach second, John Muir fifteenth, and Bakersfield seventeenth. The weekly dope-sheet also predicts that the local gridders will defeat Oceanside 27 to 6.

And to you who think a woman has no business writing sports, I have but two words to say: DROP DEAD.

Koral Keeps Don Horsehidors In Shape With Semi-Pro S. A. Merchant Nine

Collegiate students generally turn their attentions to the football field during a fall term, but it is interesting to note that this is the time of the year when the winners of the National and American leagues clash for world baseball supremacy by locking horns in the annual World Series.

This article, however, does not intend to discuss the Yankees of the Bronx, or the Dodgers of Flatbush, but of the rosy prospects which should confront Santa Ana college's horsehide mentor next spring.

Joe Koral, who coached last season's Don nine, formed a semi-pro team, the Santa Ana Merchants, last summer, building the team around many of the athletes who played for the Dons last season. Dropping very few games, they defeated some of the better semi-pro teams in Southern California.

Don monogram wearers included in this group are Jerry Tremble, Carl Oberto and Ralph Freitag of the present Don football team, little Eddie Brown, the peppery second-sacker, Joel Hayes, a fine southpaw flinger, the flashy hot corner guardian, Wally Dietrich, and Dick Parker, timely hitting outfielder.

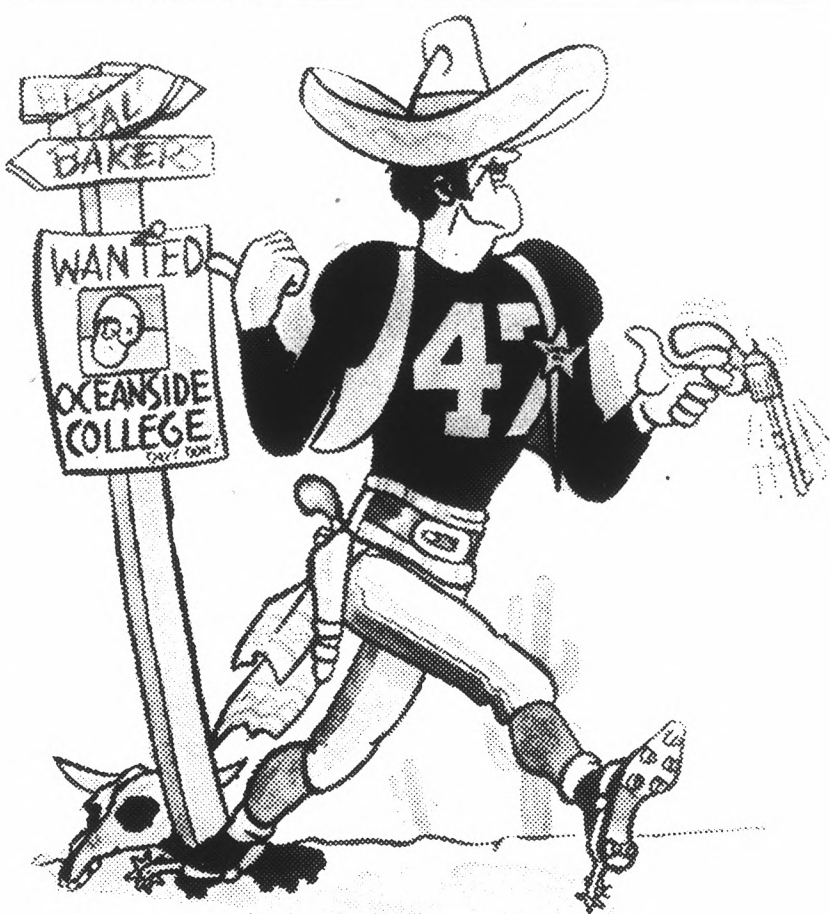

Dale Richardson, who led the Don nine with a 382 batting average last season, and Bruce Wilkinson, the lad who hurled that masterful no-hitter against Santa Monica last season, are also enrolled in Donville.

Lyle Christiansen, who held down the short-stop position for the local semi-pro team, is also enrolled, and he is expected to fill the shoes of the departed Jim Davis. Christiansen is a great fielder with a strong arm, and a sharp batting eye.

The above mentioned veterans, plus a few outstanding prep stars, make local baseball prospects appear bright for next spring's heavy baseball schedule.

McGee Turns Artist

Bill McGee, first string tackle on the Don eleven, has proved he has talent other than playing football.

McGee, who drew the sports cartoon appearing on this page, and who sketched most of the posters for last year's social events, recently won first prize in a cartoon contest for "Leath-erneck," Marine magazine.
